GRAND TURISMO EVOLVED

Exterior allure captures attention with three key highlights: an awe-inspiring two-part glass sunroof over the helm station, a generous U-shaped rest area transforming into a sundeck, and foldout platforms on both sides of the cockpit that extend usable space while at rest.

A driver-centric approach allows for the manipulation of the sunroof, side windows, and an ingenious two-tone steering console, offering triple screens for simultaneous performance monitoring, navigation, and fish-finding. Electrically adjustable seats and steering wheel enhance convenience, while optional GPS virtual anchor and joystick docking streamline maneuvering. Immersive entertainment is fostered by a potent surround sound system and ambient lighting both above and below water. Amid the main sitting area find a wet galley equipped with an ice maker, grill, fridge, and additional storage. A pop-up 32-inch TV caters to evening amusement. The boat's modular design offers three distinct stern configurations – sundeck, classic bench setup, and fishing-oriented transom console.

Below deck, a full-sized saloon beckons, featuring a forward-shifted sitting area. Overnight accommodations include transformable settees for four berths and a midship guest area. Owners can opt for additional storage or a compact galley complete with cooker, fridge, and sink. The functional bathroom offers a separate head and shower, illuminated by an oversized window.

In summary, the 375 embodies a harmonious blend of design ingenuity, performance, and versatile functionality, presenting a compelling proposition for boating enthusiasts seeking an exceptional day boat experience.
